LETTER FROM MAZZINI.—The following letter from Mazzini addressed to the London agent of the United States Sanitary Commission is interesting:

"Dear Mr Fisher: Has there been published, or is there about being published a good accurate primary history of the late struggle, relating in one volume to the events of the war, the progressive march which led to the solution of the tried problem, emancipation, and [illegible], the noble individual and collective efforts, the money raised by voluntary subscription, the doings of the Sanitary Commission, and all that tends to prove the immense vitality of your republican principle? What you have done is so heroic, that I feel the profound necessity of having it properly known in all our countries, and especially in my own. We would translate and spread the book everywhere.

Your triumph is our triumph, the triumph of all those who are struggling for the advent of a republican era. Our adversaries were pointing to the worst period of the old French revolution as to the irrefutable proof of republics leading to terror, anarchy and military despotism. You have refuted all that. You have done more for us in four years than fifty years of teaching, preaching and writing, from all our European brothers have been able to do.

Complete your work. The United States stand now a leading Power in Europe, too, and power is duty. You are called on by God to enter a new career. Your function had been hitherto to constitute, to organize yourselves, and to realize, within your own boundaries, the republican principle which is your life. It was natural that, whilst doing that, you should carefully abstain from interfering with European movements or with the general march of mankind. That task fulfilled, a second one must now begin for you.

The life of a great people is two-fold, inward and outward. Such an amount of heroism and strength as has been displayed by the United States, must lead to more than the solution of a mere problem of existence, and of an incomplete one. It is an implement given by God for the good of all. The abolition of slavery binds you to the onward march of mankind, and the admiration of all Europe calls you to take your rank—a leading one—in that onward march. Above American life, above European life, there is mankind's life, mankind's education, mankind's progress. That is the common aim in which we are all brothers and combatants. There is our great battle—to which all local battles are episodes—fought on both continents and everywhere, between liberty and tyranny, equality and privilege, right and might, justice and arbitrary rule, good and evil, God and the devil. By these four years of noble deeds and self sacrifice, you have been enlisted to take share in it wherever it is fought.

Remember this, and remember us, who are ready to help in the task. And remember the plan of which the first line has been visibly written by European despotism in Mexico. Believe me, dear Mr Fisher, ever faithfully yours,

JOSEPH MAZZINI."

A TOUCHING TRIBUTE.—One of the most elegant and touching tributes to President Lincoln that we have ever seen, is the following from the address of Wendell Phillips:

"And what of him in whose precious blood this momentous lesson is writ? He sleeps in the blessings of the poor, whose fetters God commissioned him to break. Give prayers and tears to the desolate widow and fatherless, but count him blessed far above the crowd of his fellow men. [Fervent cries of amen!] He was permitted to deal the last staggering blow which sent rebellion reeling to its grave, and then, holding his darling boy by the hand, to walk the streets of its surrendered capital, while his ear drank in praise and thanksgiving which bore his name to the throne of God in every form piety and gratitude could invent, and then seal the sure triumph of the cause he loved with his own blood. He caught the first notes of the coming jubilee, and heard his own name in every one. Who among living men may not envy him? Suppose that, when a boy, he floated on the slow current of the Mississippi, idly gazing at the slave upon its banks, [illegible] had lifted the curtain and shown him that in the prime of his life he should see a proud [illegible] rocked to its foundation in its effort to hold those chains, should himself marshal the hosts of the Almighty in the grandest and holiest war that Christendom ever knew, and deal with half reluctant hand, that thunderbolt of justice which would smite the foul system to the dust, then die, leaving a name immortal in the sturdy pride of our race and the undying gratitude of another—would any credulity however fervid, have [illegible] him to believe it? Fortunate man! He [illegible] lived to do it! [Applause.] God has graciously withheld him from any fatal misstep in the great advance, and withdrawn him at the [illegible] when his star touched the zenith, and the nation needed a sterner hand for the work God gives it to do."

AFFAIRS IN NORTH CAROLINA.—A correspondent of the New York World, writing from Greensboro, N. C., says of the people of that State:

Our progress southward is the same story of foul cars, filthy fellow passengers, hot and dusty travel without food or drink, noisome hotels, and execrable cookery. Dirt, squalor and wretchedness seem to have taken possession of the land. North Carolina seems to have suffered less from the ravages of war, but had less to commence with. Popular intelligence was very backward with her. She was flanked into the secession movement by Virginia and South Carolina on either hand. Her poorest and rudest population were among the staunchest supporters of the Union. The aristocracy were all found in the ranks of the rebellion.

The country is poor, very poor. The same destitution as in Virginia, the men wearing their heavy, coarse gray cloth, notwithstanding the intense heat, and the women their [illegible] garments. The women look enviously upon the piles of new gaiters and hosiery which the sutlers have brought hither, but they have no money, and their feet are clad in rags. Hoop skirts enough at the store doors, but nobody, unless it be the negroes, have the money to purchase. There is a little tobacco in the country, nothing else to sell. You must know that by far the greatest number of the women here chew tobacco or snuff, many of them smoke.

The destitute ration has been dropped, except to the unemployed negroes, for the manifest reason that it fostered idleness and fraud among the whites. There were no less than 30,000 rations issued at Raleigh in a single day, and increasing. It is now reasoned that a State which could do so much for the needs of the Confederate army can maintain its own people, who ought to be at work. There are few people at work besides negroes. There is no trade. Field labor has been considered the peculiar province of the negro, except in the upland counties. Confederate officers and soldiers are loafing about the streets waiting for something to turn up, but not trying to turn up anything.

ONE OF MANY.—A few days ago, an old man, gray headed and infirm arrived at the Bremen street station house begging for food. The keeper, a kind and genial German, procured some bread and cheese from an adjacent bakery, and the old man devoured the victuals with a voracity painful to behold. He was without money, he said, and had wandered, weary and faint, through the heated dusty streets of the city, and always too proud to ask relief. Two days had passed since a morsel had passed his lips, and the famished, cadaverous face, the weak steps, did not belie the statement.

After having somewhat appeased his hunger, the strange visitor told his simple story. A few words sufficed, but few though they were they embodied a long history.

When the rebellion broke out he was a wealthy and influential citizen of Richmond. He espoused the Confederate cause, entered the army and had [illegible] colonel and finally a Brigadier General. About a year ago he had been captured, since which he has been a prisoner at Camp Chase.

Meanwhile two sons had been killed in the rebel service and his wife had died broken hearted. Family property and all were gone and now, released from confinement, alone in the world, he—the survivor—was going he knew not whither.

The old man's form trembled as with palsy while making the mournful recital. He looked strange and wild like some weather beaten wreck stranded on an inhospitable [illegible]. The war has [illegible] and he is only one of many. Transportation was procured for the old man over the Baltimore and Ohio railroad and he left the next day for the city of Richmond.—[illegible] Times.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE.

SATURDAY MORNING AUGUST 12, 1865

The Atlantic Telegraph

It was announced some time ago that the vessels which were chosen to lay the telegraph cable between the coasts of Ireland and Newfoundland would sail on their errand about the middle of July. We have no news from the East of a later date than that appointed for the work to begin. If the weather proved propitious and no accident befell the expedition, Europe and America have for some days been in telegraphic communication with each other. We can hardly doubt that the cable was successfully laid. The experimental knowledge acquired by the similar work of 1858 was of great value in constructing the present cable, and has no doubt served an equally good purpose in laying it down. Notwithstanding all obstacles and in spite of a want of experience, the cable of 1858 was stretched across the ocean without any serious mishap, and since in the present instance all accidents that would have been likely to occur were foreseen and provision made against them, it is hardly probable that the enterprise was a failure.

The work of laying the original Atlantic cable was finished on the 5th of August 1858. For a period of above two months signals were passed over the wires and for the space of a fortnight ending on the first of September many messages were accurately transmitted. The current at all times was very weak, and many expedients had to be resorted to in order to make its action at all perceptible. Powerful electric batteries were employed for the purpose but it was found that no appliances that could be brought to bear would make the transmission of dispatches easy and rapid. Finally the wires ceased to work and all attempts to pass signals over them proved futile. It was afterwards ascertained that the defect in the cable was at a point about three hundred miles from Valencia, Ireland. It would have been impossible to raise the cable without breaking it, and hence it could not be repaired.

The present cable is constructed in a manner far superior to that of the former one. A more perfect process of insulation than was formerly used or known, is now provided. Better and more effective measures for preserving the cable from the corrosive action of the salt water, are used in the present case than were known in the former one. Every part of the new line was thoroughly tested by practical experiment before it was placed on board the ship. In addition to its other coatings, it is covered with tarred rope yarn throughout its whole length, so that water can not reach the conducting wires. Portions of the old cable were recovered in 1860, having been in the water but two years, and which were, notwithstanding, rusted to such an extent, that the indications were, that the cable would ere long be nearly destroyed. The covering of tarred rope will render the present cable quite secure against this danger. Our next advices from the East will probably inform us of the beginning, and it may be, of the completion of this wonderful work. It will not be the source of so much comment and possibly not of so much interest, as the like event of 1858 then was, for the world has now become more accustomed than formerly to great occurrences and to the splendid triumphs of physical science; but the usefulness of the great enterprise will be appreciated more highly than it ever could have been before, since the need of it is growing greater as civilization grows older and as, in accordance with the true policy of a progressive age, communication and intercourse are constantly becoming more general among all men.

POPULAR RIGHTS IN ENGLAND.—The struggle now going on in England between the aristocratic pl[illegible] and the advocates of popular rights exceeds in intensity, any conflict of the kind which that country has witnessed for years. Every recognition of equal natural and civil rights, which the aristocracy yields, is not granted on their part, but extorted by the superior force of their opponents. Disguise the fact as they may, it is true nevertheless, that the complete triumph of popular Government in the case of the United States, is an overwhelming blow to those who seek to retain power by ignoring the rights of their fellow men. The English aristocracy feel that our victory is an irresistible argument against them and against that system which, in the name of liberty, unjustly denies to all save themselves, a voice in their common Government. This is the secret of their malignant opposition to this country during our trying struggle. Popular Government is now vindicated, the people of England have seen enough of its strength and excellence to convince them that such a Government is better than one which is entirely under the control of a privileged few, and accordingly they are moving with a determination to obtain the rights which belong to a free people, and which hitherto, they have only nominally possessed. It is not their purpose to construct a Government like our own, but it is their design to reverse that arrangement which gives a small minority the power and the right to exercise control over a vastly large number of their fellow-men. On the struggle now being waged in England, the London Weekly Times, the advocate of popular rights, has an article from which we quote as follows:

> The origin of the aristocratic minority does not invest it with special claims to rule over others against their will or without their consent. The next form their pretensions might take, and in which the upper section of the m[illegible] class might join, would be on the ground of their property. They might say, "We are very rich in houses and lands. We keep this sort of property from one generation to another on our eldest sons, and we quarter as many of our younger children as we can up in the public purse." The reasoning may be very fine, but it fails to convince us of the propriety of investing this particular minority with the enormous powers it claims. The statement of the opponents of a wide suffrage is that it will enable the majority to prevail over the minority. Such a proposition implies that the country ought to be governed by some minority invested with the means of excluding as many of the majority as might be necessary to maintain its own autocratic position. But if any minority is thus to be exalted at the expense of the rest, why should it be the aristocracy? They have one branch of the Legislature all to themselves. They have prodigious means of influencing both action and opinion through the property they possess and the position they hold. A minority so situated does not need artificial helps to its power. On the contrary—to say nothing of the majority—other minorities which have an equal or superior moral claim to influence the current of public affairs need special protection against an unjustifiable predominance of this highly favored class.
> Very valid claims can be made out on behalf of minorities in general, and of the rights of individuals, any one of whom may at any moment constitute a minority of one; but no special claim can be rationally put forward on the part of a minority richly endowed with either privilege or wealth. * * * When people are governed without their consent, and when an individual, or class, decides without consulting them what shall be done in reference to their affairs, such government is [illegible] and a despotism is only susceptible of justification when the people are unable or unwilling to perform the duties without the discharge of which it [illegible] is impossible.

GENERAL CUSTER'S HORSE CLAIMED.—The Washington Chronicle of June 21st says:

> It will be recollected that General Custer's horse was the object of much remark on the day of the grand review in this city, both because of his splendid appearance and from the fact of his having ran away with the General on meeting [illegible] a wreath of flowers presented to him. This horse was captured in Virginia last year and is valued at $1,000. Yesterday the original owner of the horse [illegible] establishing the fact of his loyalty obtained from the Secretary of War authority to take the horse wherever he might be found. The [illegible] finally ascertained that the horse had gone to New Orleans with the General. The disconsolate owner [illegible] immediately.

Stephen A. Douglas once remarked, that this Government would never be really strong until some one should be convicted of treason and deliberately hanged.

The time has come when it should be demonstrated that this is a strong Government. We imagine however that those who are so fond of quoting Douglas on some themes will not coincide with him when he speaks about the hanging of traitors.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—[illegible] Carolina [illegible] from the North [illegible] large amounts [illegible] emigration [illegible] takes a deep interest [illegible] the Northern people with the [illegible] on this subject [illegible] are about [illegible] New York [illegible] will establish emigration agencies [illegible] that there will [illegible] thousand bales of [illegible] Mississippi [illegible] year. The overflow of the river has almost destroyed the [illegible] interior [illegible] upon the war has prevented planting [illegible] very limited extent.

Financial Matters

WASHINGTON, July 16.—The [illegible] Secretary in satisfying the larger claims against the Government by the payment of [illegible] in cash and 7 3/10 per cent. In certificates is entirely unjust in view of the state of the financial situation. In the first place the Secretary has no authority to [illegible] money [illegible] the $[illegible] asked for by Mr. Fessenden, the last of which is now being marketed by Jay Cooke. Secondly the Government is [illegible] an army of eight hundred thousand men and paying every man up in full, a thing without precedent in history, and it is for the satisfaction of the claims of the soldiers that the receipts of the Government from loans and revenues are now being used. These demands will all be promptly paid so that the soldier who has received an honorable discharge may go home with respect for the Government that has so faithfully fulfilled its obligations to him. Thirdly, the closing up of the accounts of the army calls for a larger amount of money than was anticipated, and as the Secretary can get no relief until Congress meets, he does not propose to have the treasury entirely dried up and therefore resorts to the only alternative left him, the issue of certificates of indebtedness to the large creditors of the Government.

NEW YORK, July 17.—The chief feature in the financial circles is the material increase in the subscriptions to the Government loan which despite the objectionable option to pay six per cent coin or 7 3/10 currency, is averaging between $1,000,000 and $5,000,000 per day. On last Saturday it reached $[illegible]. The subscriptions are large from the national banks but there are still a good many individual subscriptions which go to swell the aggregate to a large figure. The last two steamers brought out large orders for the 5 20 loan which has a glorious run on the other side and prices have again advanced [illegible] and 106 per cent. The sixes of 1881, have advanced materially, having sold freely at from 107 to 108 per cent, and nearly all kinds of Government securities are also higher. The total number of national banks is 1,440, thirty nine of which were established last week with a capital of nearly $6,500,000. Of our currency issue a good deal of dissatisfaction is felt, owing to the non-compliance of the Secretary of the Treasury to fulfill the request of Congress in reference to the publishment of a regular monthly statement of the public debt. The return is required by act of Congress on the 1st of every month, and although July is half gone it has not made its appearance.

A Washington dispatch says there are yet 1,500 prize claims to be settled by the fourth auditor, involving a large amount of money. The Land Office statistics show increased activity, the demand for the public lands for actual settlement being unusually heavy.

The upward tendency of gold has [illegible] a greater degree of buoyancy and firmness in commercial circles, since our last and though the movement in trade has been moderate, prices as a general thing have tended in favor of the seller. The volume of trade is fair for the season. Coffee is firm but quiet at 18@21c for Rio. [illegible] Spirits of Turpentine have advanced [illegible] $1 85. Tobacco, active, prices of Kentucky ranging from [illegible]. Domestic whisky is a little firmer at $2 [illegible] [illegible] Stuart quotes [illegible] at 19½c and other kinds in proportion. NORTHERN REBELS.—The [illegible] thus discourses on the New York [illegible]

If justice be done in New York city there will be a terrible reckoning against the spirit that fed rebellion [illegible] during the war. That city has [illegible] the Government more trouble than any Southern State. The riots in July 1863 [illegible] in favor of Lee's army [illegible] struction of the latter at Gettysburg [illegible] prolonged the war a year at the cost [illegible] dred thousand lives. We never saw so many little [illegible] (and several not so little), collected in one crowd before. There must have been [illegible] of them all together.

FACTS ABOUT THE CONSPIRACY TRIAL.—The following items will give some idea of the immense labor which has devolved upon the Court martial. Total number of witnesses subpoenaed 4[illegible]; number of witnesses examined, 3[illegible]; number examined including recalls 122. Number subpoenaed for prosecution 247, number actually examined 198; number subpoenaed for defense, [illegible]; number actually examined 16[illegible]; total number of pages of testimony (legal cap) 4,300—making a solid pile of manuscript somewhat over twenty six inches high; the arguments will make in addition 700. The vast mass of depositions, etc., taken by three Judge Advocates (Colonel Burnett, Colonel Foster and Colonel Olcott) prior to the opening of the case, employed five short hand writers a fortnight, and will take two experienced clerks six weeks to brief and file away. In this, as in all State trials the Government pays the expenses of witnesses for the defense as well as the prosecution, at the rate of three dollars per day, and the actual cost of transportation to and from the witnesses' homes.

TENNESSEE.—Nearly a dozen candidates for Congress have made their appearance in the Nashville District in Tennessee, but most of them have withdrawn their pretensions to Arnold, who has been nominated by a District Convention of the Radical party. Ex Governor William B. Campbell, one of the ablest and most patriotic gentlemen in the State, seems likely to become the choice of the Conservative voters.

Meeting of the Common Council.—The regular weekly meeting of the Common Council was held at the Council room at 8 o'clock last evening. Mayor Failing presiding. The following members were present: Messrs Clarke, [illegible], Lowensdale, Morgan, [illegible] Rosenheim and Snyder.

The minutes of the previous meeting were approved. Remonstrances were submitted by Messrs [illegible] and others to the proposed change of grade at the intersection of Morrison and Seventh streets. Also by Messrs Foster, Burnside [illegible] to a proposed change of grade on Fifth, between Washington and Yamhill streets. Also, by Messrs. [illegible] against change of grade on Sixth between Washington and A streets. Also by Messrs Gaston, Harrington and others, to proposed change of grade on North and Seventh street. Also by Messrs Tracy, [illegible] and others, to proposed change of grade on Sixth street. Also, by Messrs Daly, McDonald and others, to proposed change of grade between Second and Ninth and A and B streets, all of which were referred to the committee on Streets and public property.

The committee on Ordinances [illegible] the annual report of the Chief Engineer of the Fire Department, reported that the same was a matter of interest to the members of the Department and citizens generally, and recommended its publication in the city papers, or in the Daily Oregonian. [illegible] might be read and preserved. The report was adopted and on motion it was ordered [illegible].

The committee on streets and public property reported favorably on the petition of Dr Weatherford and others for a change of grade on Third street between Salmon and Yamhill streets, which report was adopted and an ordinance authorizing the change to be made was read a second time.

The same committee reported favorably to the opening of Jackson and Eighth streets between Ninth and [illegible] [illegible], in order that residents [illegible] city might obtain access to a spring [illegible] water, and the Street Commissioner was authorized to have the same effected.

The Judiciary committee, to whom was referred the [illegible] of M. A. Gray, [illegible] asking for [illegible] for a reduction of assessment [illegible] advise to the same, and the report was adopted.

The City Auditor and Clerk of the Council submitted a report of delinquencies on the assessment for the improvement of Front street numbering some twenty one [illegible] lists and the amounts due from each. The report was accepted, and on motion the Auditor was directed to issue a warrant against the property, and deliver the same to the City Marshal in accordance with the provisions of the Charter for collection.

Warrants were authorized in liquidation of claims against the city, as follows: On the Fire Department fund—to Wiberg & Strowbridge $[illegible]; Thomas [illegible] $[illegible]; Robert Pittock, $30; Division [illegible] $[illegible]. On the [illegible] fund—to H. L. Pittock, printing [illegible]; Wolf Bros & Co, rent of council chamber [illegible]; A. G. Walling, printing [illegible] City Assessor [illegible]; Water Company, $[illegible]; Gas Light Company $13. An account of the Gas Light Company for $[illegible] was referred [illegible] on accounts and current expenses, also an account of $71 from J. L. Parrish & Co. [illegible] referred to [illegible]. A bill of [illegible] H. Myers for $7 15 was laid over for appropriation of funds.

An Act to prevent the running at large of horses and cattle within the city limits during certain hours at any time of the year, was read a third time and [illegible] It will take effect from and after its approval by the Mayor.

An Act [illegible] appropriating $850 for the purchase of hose for Engine Company No. 4 passed.

On motion the Council adjourned to meet at the Chamber at 7½ o'clock this evening.

Notes of a Prospecting Trip.—G. L. Evans has furnished us with the notes of a prospecting trip in the Cascade [illegible], from which he has just returned. The party left Mr. James Terwilliger's farm, on the Portland and [illegible] Road, on the 20th of July. After travel[ing] three days they spent a day in prospecting on a creek lying some thirty miles from this city in the vicinity of Dickey's Prairie. They found it to contain iron of [illegible] quality, but there were no indications of gold. On the [illegible] day out they moved on in quest of good feed for their pack horses. At noon they [illegible] in a prairie, the surrounding picturesque[ness] of which was sublimely grand. From the trail above this camp, some of the highest peaks of the range with their [illegible] were seen. The prairie was small but is a living green, half surrounded by hills of burnt timber. A good wagon road could be made to it by building a [illegible] and grading about ten miles of the distance. On the 12th of July they prospected on what they supposed to be one of the forks of the Clackamas, and various other streams putting into it. There were no indications of [illegible] found. These creeks are described as being [illegible] with an abundance of water, and have from 100 to [illegible] fall. On the following day prospecting was [illegible] without better success, and on the 24 of August they proceeded into the mountains in the direction of the head-waters of the Clackamas and Molalla. On the [illegible] prospecting was again resumed. The water in the creeks was very cold and no signs of gold or mineral was found. The principal rock to be found was iron stone and black hard boulders. They did not consider [illegible] country, but were anxious to test the truth of [illegible]. On the 5th they started back as their horses was not sure footed, and could not be trusted on one or two very narrow ridges of the mountains [illegible] have been obliged to travel over. [illegible] reported in the vicinity of Table Rock, on the [illegible] of the Molalla, as they were informed there had been, it would require a large expenditure to put a road [illegible] From Dickey's Prairie to Table Rock the [illegible] is given at 35 miles. On the 7th at Dickey's [illegible] Claybanks' party was met, from whom they learned that three men were at work about fifteen miles [illegible] of [illegible] Rock, and that a prospect of from 25 cents to $1 50 to the pan had been obtained. This party [illegible] to be drifting in on the side of a hill along a [illegible] quartz, and that three distinct [illegible] found. The notes of Mr Evans do not [illegible] with any particular data as to their course [illegible] hereafter in his minutes, were piloted [illegible] by Claybank, and left Oregon City some [illegible] ago. The country traversed is described as [illegible] and diversified in its scenery, [illegible] in floral beauty, but in portions the most uninviting to a weary prospector on the march.

Court.—In Recorder's Court yesterday there [illegible] before His Honor, Justice Hoffman, three unfortunates. The first, Fitzpatrick, the second, John E. Kelly, and the third, Geo. Reed. And it appeared to the Court that said several defendants were guilty of [illegible]—except in the case of the last named, who had been arraigned on a charge of stealing a coat from the [illegible] New World.—John Fitzpatrick, drunk [illegible] in a boisterous and unbecoming [illegible] ordinance No. 10, the penalty for which is a fine of $5 and costs, which was accorded [illegible] E. Kelly, of the same offence, except [illegible] the drunk to be boisterous, and he was committed for two days. The last named defendent Geo. [illegible] from further prosecution.

Arrived.—By private letter from San Francisco, [illegible] August 2d, we are informed that the steamer [illegible] good state of repair, receiving a thorough [illegible] for the Portland and Victoria trade, and will [illegible] before the first of September, to commence [illegible] trips. The trade has been one-sided for a long time [illegible] this port and Vancouver Island. We [illegible] steamer from Victoria for three months [illegible] traffic that was established by the George [illegible] has been broken up in disgust. Capt. Ketchum [illegible] is our main stock, and he does [illegible] it well—to supply the trade, but it is [illegible] that is wanted.

[illegible]—Capt Ankeny's new steamer above the Falls, the Echo, is a decided success. She will run [illegible] upon the upper river. By Monday next [illegible] on the boat will be completed, and she will then have excellent accommodations for passengers [illegible] run the whole summer, thus supplying a want that has long been felt. On Thursday last the [illegible] along with the steamer Relief, of the P. T. Co.'s line. The Echo reached Salem by 11 o'clock A. M. of that day. The Relief reached the same place [illegible] morning. It is then defined that the light draught boat answers the purposes for which she was built.

The Canal [illegible]—The basin to be formed by the works of the P. T. Company at the Willamette Falls, for the better transportation of freight over the portage at that place, will [illegible] the boats to within fifty feet of each other, but there will be an incline of fifty four feet to [illegible] from the lower boat to that of the upper one. The work is to be done by forming a wing dam or [illegible] water of solid hewn timber and plank firmly [illegible] in the rocks of the Falls. It is calculated that by November 1st boats can enter and discharge freight at the basin landing.

The Race To-Day.—The trotting match between Mac and Billy Come Up, will come off [illegible] at the [illegible] Park this afternoon. [illegible] notice during the past few days [illegible] exciting time.

Temperance.—Rev. Geo. H. Taylor will speak on the [illegible] of Temperance in this city on Monday and Tuesday evenings. The place will be announced in Monday's issue.

Lumber.—We hear of a lumber [illegible] our builders [illegible] Dollars at $2. [illegible] the [illegible] from the Bear [illegible] Valley Mills, near Rainier.

A Gentleman of the Old School.—A certain Mr Smith was an excessively polite man. Falling overboard from a boat in which was a large party, he was in imminent danger of being drowned, as he could not swim. Even then his politeness did not forsake him. He said, in gentle tones, "Gentlemen, will you be so kind as to help me into the boat? My garments are [illegible] saturated with water."

The demand for farm laborers and domestic servants in Canada is now greater than the supply. Emigrants who arrive there from Europe do not usually stay in Canada, but go to Illinois and other Western States.

Religious Services.—[illegible] the Rev. G. H. [illegible] will preach in German in the Council Chamber to-morrow at 10½ o'clock and in English at 3 P. M.

The time has come when our German [illegible] want a Church of their own. Will our [illegible] who is willing to make us a proposition of a Church lot [illegible] A [illegible] will be held in South Portland to-morrow at 9 A. M.

Fenian Guards' Attention.—The regular [illegible] of your Company will be held in your new Armory, in Carter's Building, room No. 8, on next Monday [illegible] at half past seven. A full attendance is requested. Per order. E. J. DOUGHERTY, Ord'y Serg't.

P. S.—The Brotherhood is requested to attend at the same time and place. J. H. EGAN, Sec.

The Overland Emigration.—The Austin Nevada [illegible] of July 28th has the following: [illegible] through with the [illegible] from the [illegible] They were three families from Wisconsin [illegible] [illegible] the Missouri river on the 8th of May, and had neither sickness nor trouble with the Indians. They confirm the statements of previous arrivals that the bulk of this year's immigration will go to Oregon and the northern Territories. [illegible] destined [illegible] California.

Yesterday morning sixteen wagons, containing one hundred men, women and children, arrived in town [illegible] Colorado. [illegible] the Missouri river on the 8th of May, and are from the States of Illinois, Iowa, Indiana and Missouri. The party had excellent health, and met with no trouble during their long journey.

The Captor of Jeff Davis.—The actual captor of Jeff Davis was a private in the 4th Michigan Cavalry, named James H. Lynch. A member of that regiment writes:

Davis would have undoubtedly escaped had time been given him to mount his horse, as it was considered the fastest in the Confederacy. Any attempt to do so was rendered entirely abortive by the daring intrepidity and presence of mind evinced by James H. Lynch, a member of Company C. This gallant soldier dashed ahead of our entire party to the center of their camp, and instantly secured Jeff's horse, as well as his arms. The horse was well known to Lynch, as he had seen him frequently in Richmond. Jeff was thus rendered powerless to escape, and virtually a prisoner to this gallant fellow, who turned him over to a strong guard as soon as our men came up.

More Troops Wanted for the Idaho Route.—The Sacramento [illegible] of August 21 says:

Captain Mullan, who has recently become connected with Pierce & Co's, in the Idaho Stage Line, arrived in this city yesterday, for the purpose of obtaining an increase of the military force now established on the Idaho route. He started for this city at first, anticipating an interview with General Wright on the subject. Finding that that officer had been transferred to another department, Captain Mullan went to San Francisco to confer with General McDowell on the subject. [illegible] troops are wanted especially in the [illegible] District, to protect travelers and settlers against the Indians who infest that locality.

What a Prophet!—Jeff Davis was a worse prophet than he was a woman. In 1861 he said:

"Your brother States will gladly come into the Southern Confederacy within sixty days, as we will be your only friends. England will recognise us, and a glorious future is before us. The grass will grow in the Northern cities where the pavements have been worn by the track of commerce. We will carry war where it is easy to advance, where food for the sword and torch await the armies in the densely populated cities."

Good Advice.—A Boston paper gives a piece of good advice to those now making returns of last year's income:

Parties making income returns, when they reach an item about the handling of which they feel some uncertainty, had better serve their country and put conscience at ease, by giving the United States the benefit of the doubt.

Advices from Havana say the rebel fugitive Breckinridge, who is in that city, is counseling his friends to apply for pardon, intimating that he intends to himself. That is one of the things he'll never get in this world. It is said that his venerable uncle, on being applied to by the nephew's family to intercede in his behalf, peremptorily refused to do so.

Gen. Grant, some years ago, while acting as quartermaster, lost $1,000 of Government funds by theft, and though the loss was from no fault of his own, he paid it in his settlement with Government. On the 17th of June 1862 an act was passed refunding to him the amount.

The Albany Journal says: "General Grant is far from well. The herculean labors of the past eighteen months have made serious inroads even upon his iron constitution. He is troubled with night sweats, and complains of prostration. He goes to Saratoga in a few days to recruit.

Richard Yeadon, the South Carolinian, who offered a reward of $10,000 for Butler's head, is living in abject poverty at Aiken. He has taken the oath of allegiance.

The Banner Regiment.—The 1st Vermont Cavalry, Col. Hall, is said to have captured more guns and flags in actual conflict than any regiment during the war.

Galveston (Texas) papers are complaining of the want of sufficient shipping at that port to take away the cotton now there and daily arriving from the interior. The quantity of cotton west of the Mississippi is estimated at 1,000,000 bales.

To Neutralize Offensiveness.—In many forms we use disinfecting agents. Impure breath, caused by bad teeth, tobacco, spirits or catarrh, is neutralized by Sozodont. 'Tis a healthful beautifier and a great luxury as a dentifrice. The repulsive breath is by its use rendered as fragrant as a rose, and coldness by friends or lovers will be no longer noticed.

Rejoinder to Myers

THE FOLLOWING IS THE LIST OF PRICES (AS per Circular from Springfield, Ohio, which I have in my possession) of James Leffel's American Double Turbine Water Wheels.

	Cost at Springfield, Ohio	Cost at Portland, Ogn
10 inch Wheel,	$230 Currency	$500 Gold
16	275	575
20	330	1 000
30	450

Owing to currency being only 50 cents on the dollar at the time my agent wrote, Leffel added 16 per cent, in addition to the price of his wheels.

To secure a patent in any State the law requires that the wheels should be manufactured in the State, and that the prices be uniform.

In his signature to his advertisement of his wheels Myers signs himself Leffel & Myers, which shows positively that he (Myers) has no patent right for this coast.

It is dishonest and thieving in any firm to make a difference of three or four hundred per cent between their customers East and West. aul6dtf J. HENTER

Horsemen, Now is Your Time!

I EXPECT TO EXHIBIT COBERG AND HIS FAMILY of Colts at the Oregon State Fair, Oct. 3d, at Salem. I challenge the coast to meet me and produce a Family, [with] authenticated history of a Family in America, that will surpass them for size, form, style, coat, action, and their adaptation to general use or sporting purposes. I will have some yearling colts for sale.

Persons wishing to secure the services of COBERG in Northern Oregon, for the season of 1866, can do so by seeing me on my way to or at the Fair.

I deem it unnecessary to give an extended description here, but would invite persons to call and see for themselves. Would say that I have reliable information that where the COBERG stock has been in use in Illinois for 16 years at least, they give satisfaction and bring more money than any other stock of horses.

South Western Georgia

A correspondent of the Cincinnati [illegible], writing from Albany, Georgia, under date of June [illegible], gives an extended account of his conversations with the planters of that region. The following extracts are selected:

WHAT AN [illegible] PLANTER SAID

I had an interesting [illegible] with a large emigrant from South Carolina, a brother-in-law of ex-Governor [illegible] of that State, residing in Griffin, Georgia, [illegible] owning a large plantation near Albany, which he had annually visited. [illegible] that he had finished his education in Europe. His manner was sincere and moderate, his language good, and his figure and bearing seemed a more than commonly good specimen of the Southern planter. He expected [illegible] the North would not attempt to oppress the South because it had been beaten, or rather as was more proper to say, overwhelmed. He hoped that Congress, when it assembled, would in its good judgment see fit to moderate the severity of the proclamation, and make the process of abolition gradual. He could not think but that, when the wisdom of the country came to reflect, the injustice of such sudden action to masses and its impolicy to slaves would appear. The lands of the South would be utterly valueless without slavery. The profits of the planter had never been from his crops but from the increase of his slaves. And there was a misapprehension at the North in reference to the supposed large profits of Southern planters. For his own part his capital had never yielded more than three per cent, and hardly that.

I assured him that immediate emancipation was inevitable.

Well, then he hoped the State would be allowed to regulate the system of labor by some practical system of police, that would give the owner of the plantation control of the labor and prevent the negroes from straying. Unless this was done, the healthy and able would wander off and leave the sick, aged and infants upon the planter's hands, to be supported.

He ended this version of the subject by reading a communication he was about to address to Wilson, requesting the Government to transport back sixty negroes left upon his hands by his deceased sister, who had refugeed from Bluffton, South Carolina.

"Undoubtedly," said he, "it would be unjust to require me to support the non-workers whom the workers have left behind.

"If the slaves are freed, and the negroes are not regulated so that they can be made to work, I shall send them all away. My wife has already told the household servants, thirteen in number, that if they are freed she will send all but five away, and those five will have to do the work of the whole thirteen, for when we visited my relatives in the North we were surprised to find five servants doing the same amount of work, and doing it better, than our whole household of thirteen. I paid taxes on property of a quarter of a million nearly before the war; now my lands, at present probable prices, would not bring more than ten thousand dollars, but, if we are not to be allowed to make the negroes work, I shall abandon my plantation and sell as soon as I can. Meanwhile, I have instructed my overseers not to whip, but to keep along as quietly as possible until something definite is known."

TALKS WITH THE NEGROES

A most excellent, liberal and enterprising gentleman, who was from the first opposed to secession—a pioneer from the North, and one of the first settlers of Albany—Fift, volunteered to take me in his carriage on a little tour of inspection. We were accompanied by two proprietors of convenient plantations it was proposed to visit.

At the first plantation, two miles from town, belonging to Cu liffe, all were out in the field but old Ben, who, after chaining up a very violent and villainous looking cur, to whose neck was gracefully attached, by a chain, a heavy stick of wood, came forth and bowed low. Vason, a prominent lawyer of Albany (at one time in the Georgia S[illegible]a), did the examination on one side, I upon the other, occasionally intruding a modest cross question.

"Ben, how many on this plantation would work without being driven?"

"Well, massa, dah's Milly an' Isaac," etc., counting them on his fingers, the result of which practically was that in his opinion about half of the workers only could at [illegible] be relied upon.

"Do you think," said I, "it would make any diff'ence with these lazy ones if they were allowed to work for themselves?"

"Don't tink it would, massa."

"But, supposing they had a little patch of land fenced off—each a little farm for himself, where he could live by himself with his wife and children, don't you think some of the lazy ones would work then?"

"Yes, [illegible], I tink dey would."

Encouraged, I asked him another question, for I was beginning to be surprised at the independence and apparent intelligence of the old slave, who looked anything but a promising subject at first; and at first all his answers were one way—on the side of his master and in favor of slavery, as he appeared not to have been definitely informed that his former status as a slave was about to be materially altered—I fear it is a doubtful problem with too many. Thus his first answer to what he thought of freedom was, lightly: "I's allus been free myself," looking toward his master, who nodded approvingly, but as soon as he appeared to get an inkling that it was a proper time to express his genuine sentiments, both his manner and replies materially [illegible], showing that he was not the senseless clod he appeared to be, and such as unprejudiced men would be likely to [illegible] him, but very evidently a reasoning creature, that, as soon as re[illegible] from bondage, discovered himself.

"Can you read, Ben?" said I.

"No, massa."

"Would you like to learn?"

"Dat I would, massa, mighty well."

"What effect do you think learning to read would have on the idle and foolish, who don't appear to be disposed to work unless they are [illegible] to?"

"I links it would steady 'em, massa."

Old Ben brought us a watermelon, and while we were eating the old [illegible] started its [illegible] for [illegible] of its [illegible]

"Mr. William" (so he called his master), "da's one ting if the slaves gwin to be free, what's gwine to become of de ole folks?"

"What do you think should be done, Ben?" said I, "supposing."

"I tink you, massa William, ought to take care ob 'em."

"But," said his master, "why should I do that when you are free?"

"Cause I done worked for you, massa, all my life. You got my labor; when I can't work no more, you have got to take keer o' me."

"Well, but that labor of yours, Ben, I haven't got now; it's all spent if the slaves are freed."

"Can't help dat, massa, dat not my business. You has had de work, I hain't had it. Now what am I gwine to do if you don't take keer o' me? Ef I'd bin allowed to keep my own labor, I would now hab enough. Dat's so, massa!"

"Well, but suppose I have not anything to support you with, Ben?"

"You got de land, massa. You jis gib me de use ob a little patch o' land, I take keer ob my self—you needn't feed me."

CRUELTY.

Colonel Willing is a kind hearted man, and a convert to free labor—a system, however, to which he is by birth and education a stranger, he owned slaves himself in Kentucky until that marauder, Jessie, mounted the last one on his plow mule and ran him off. But Colonel Willing can do nothing to change the status. Slaves are beaten and come into him complaining of brutal treatment. The most he can do is to send the nigger back to work again, can't be suffered to rove about and run the risk of starvation or a bullet. When cases of wanton cruelty occur as is more frequently the case now than formerly—for the negroes are restive, doubly so from well grounded fears of treachery to their rights—the masters are reprimanded. But it is considered impolitic to forbid whipping entirely as the admitted theory of nigger government, by their old masters is that its fundamental indispensable first and last principle is—not affection, nor even hope—but fear.

You who card and spin this year's crop of American cotton, mark it bleached by the same old process of uncompensated sweat and tears and blood.

Now, don't understand me as implying a cruel disposition in the Albany planters. Those I met at least, are, I am sure, naturally kind hearted. But the slave-holder can not possibly comprehend that the flesh and blood he has paid for is of the same clay as his own. There is no use talking. No representative from south west Georgia, at least, will fail to use his utmost interest to secure such a system of police as will keep labor under control. Every one I talked with said otherwise he would give up.

A LINCOLN INSTITUTE IN WASHINGTON.—The colored people of Washington City and the District of Columbia have determined, as we learn by letter, to build an institute of learning as a monument of their gratitude to Abraham Lincoln. They have established an association for the promotion of that object, and it was intended to hold a public meeting of the colored citizens on the fourth of July. [illegible] group is connected with the White House in furtherance of this laudable project.

The Philadelphia [illegible] has an opinion from a New Orleans gentleman that the whole South was in an alarming condition [illegible] one year from this date. He had made a tour of the th[illegible] miles through the Cotton States and reports that nearly the whole of the cotton land was under [illegible]. For a distance of seven hundred miles there was not a single cotton field any where to be seen. Nor was the corn crop promising in its appearance, the absence of labor being painfully visible in the rank overgrowth of weeds that appeared everywhere to get the mastery. [illegible]

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

WEEKLY REVIEW.

PORTLAND, August 11th 1865.

[illegible] the steamship Brother Jonathan [illegible]

[illegible] the Pacific [illegible] at San Francisco [illegible] the steamship Company would not act more promptly in the matter [illegible] patched [illegible]

[illegible] of a Mutual Insurance Company [illegible] mutual assurance established on a proper plan, insurance paying dividends on the profits after deducting all necessary expenses among the insured, in a most equitable manner and pay the shareholders well, besides keeping them indemnified from losses. In other places this policy has been of great benefit to the insurers, whereas by taking [illegible] the foreign companies all the money paid has been a tax, yielding no return except in case of disaster.

For three months past the losses by fire and marine disasters have been more than double the amount [illegible] those directly interested at home. The loss of the Industry, the great fire at Idaho City, at the Dalles, the wreck of the Brother Jonathan, and lastly, the fire at Walla Walla amount [illegible] $1,840,000 calculated as follows:

Losses by the Bark Industry	$300 000
Idaho City fire	900,000
Dalles City fire	40 000
Steamer Brother Jonathan	400 000
Walla Walla fire	200 000
Total	$1,840,000

on which there was not, in all probability, an assurance for over $170,000 leaving a total loss of $1 710 000 by the several casualties. Had there been a Mutual Home Insurance organization these losses might now be made good, as the essential condition on which policies would be obtained, would have been the rates of premium by which the insured could secure dividends, in case of few losses to be paid, and a greater amount of policies would have been issued. The rates of premium need be no lower in a Home Insurance Company than in that of foreign companies and the losses would be proportionately less as the number insuring would in all probability be far greater. In San Francisco small dealers have a system of mutual assurance among themselves. By paying in monthly installments of a few dollars, a man in ordinary business is insured against loss for a proportionate amount and in case of fire reducing his stock he is immediately paid by his associates in the organization the full amount, and is thus enabled to proceed in his dealings. This plan has been in force for years, and results in good to all concerned. When the losses do not exceed the premium, the funds on hand are returned in dividends.

There are no dividends to the insurer in other systems of insurance. In these the surplus dividends are of no great importance to the policy holders. It mainly concerns the company. Oregon is now rich enough, and has valuable property enough at stake, to build up within her own borders a safe, reliable and efficient Insurance Corporation on a liberal basis. We might enter in details to prove the immense profits made in the insurance business, but it is not essential that we do so. It is sufficient to know that the money of our State and of this city, is annually expended to the amount of hundreds of thousands in the support of foreign companies, and that it never comes back, except in cases of loss to A. or B.—In rare instances, and that the want of a home organization, on such liberal basis, prevents many from taking policies at all.

There is nothing of general interest transpiring in money matters. Shares of mining stock are seldom offered. The People's Transportation Company have commenced an important work during the week, allusion to which is made elsewhere. Stocks of the O. S. Company are comparatively the same—½ ₱ cent dividends continue to be paid. Legal tenders are regulated by the telegraph reports.

GENITAL DEBILITY, ETC.

THE ASTONISHING SUCCESS WHICH HAS ATtended this invaluable medicine renders it the most valuable one ever discovered. No language can convey an adequate idea of the immediate and almost miraculous change which it occasions in the debilitated and shattered system. In fact it stands unrivalled as a remedy for the permanent cure of the maladies above mentioned, and also—

DIABETES, IMPOTENCY,
LOSS OF MUSCULAR ENERGY,
PHYSICAL PROSTRATION,
INDIGESTION,
SEMINAL WEAKNESS,
GLEET, FLUOR ALBUS,

And in every disease which is connected with the disorder [illegible] of the [illegible] Persons about to marry, if conscious of any weakness, should take the

LUNG BALSAM!

The Remedy for Curing

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS,

Asthma, Croup,

Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC, SEDATIVE, DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus, CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD, heals the irritated parts, gives strength to the digestive organs, brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect, that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS' TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION. IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it if only taken in time.

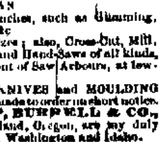
NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES!

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,



617 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhoea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned to this State, after an absence of one year, during which time he has visited all the principal hospitals of Europe, among them those of Dublin, London and Paris. The following celebrated hospitals of London are among those visited by the Doctor: Guy's, High street, Borough; St. Bartholomew's, Smithfield; St. Mary's, Lamb Place, Pad.; Lock, Harrow road; St. Luke's, Old street; University, Gower street; W[illegible]; Broad Sanctuary; Charing Cross, Agar street, Strand; London, Whitechapel road; Royal Free, Gray's Inn road; King's College, Portugal street.

DOCTOR GIBBON has also visited Doctors Acton of London, Parker of Birmingham, [illegible] and Ricord of Paris, who are considered the best physicians and surgeons in the world, and whose authority is acknowledged to be the highest in the treatment of Sexual Disease.

DOCTOR GIBBON has obtained from them their new mode of treatment which cannot be surpassed.

DOCTOR GIBBON has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with new facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret [illegible], or from virus absorbed into the system. Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies, see that they are cured for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz. Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Doctor Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in a registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who, with bogus sworn certificates, dupe the unwary. Some of the self-styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco, are fradulent and [illegible] too lazy to work at their trades. Some are [illegible] newspaper carriers [illegible] Look over the San Francisco Directory and you will not find their Medical Institutes in it, but you will find their former occupations in it. Look at the Directory for 1862 and 1863. The only way to avoid imposition is to make inquiry—it will cost you nothing and may save you many regrets; for as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus there is no safety in trusting any of them unless you know who and what they are. Doctor Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus [illegible] certificates, pretended gold medals, letters, etc. Doctor Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat diseases that he professes to cure.
